Sayings from the Tao

II.

David W. Maves (2001)

Moderato $\frac{\text{!}}{=60}$

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,

That which you would have compacted,
Sayings from the Tao — II.

A tempo

That which is about surely has been raised up ever higher.

Ritard

That which is about surely has been raised up ever higher.

About to fall sure has been raised up ever higher.
Sayings from the Tao — II.

A tempo

Those who are about to be ruined have surely been endowed.

The soft will overcome the hard.

The weak will overcome the strong.

Grandioso

The soft will overcome the hard.

The weak will overcome the strong.
Sayings from the Tao — II.

There - fore be - ware of pomp and pre - cious - ness.

Let your works be your re - ward.